Designed by Dublin based GPs Drs Shane McKeogh and Darach O'Ciardha, GPBuddy.ie was launched in May of 2010. Our website started with the aim of better connecting GPs with the specialist services that their patients require. Having grown exponentially since its launch, we now have a user count of over 3,000 GPs (>85% of GPs currently in Ireland). Over 1,600 of these GPs access the site every month with typically in excess of 700 individual GPs accessing the site on a daily basis. GPBuddy.ie is the most widely used website in Irish General Practice.

Among many features on GPBuddy.ie, our Video Tutorials provide highly relevant and up to date educational content in video format which have proven very popular throughout our GP community. These video tutorials serve multiple functions but primarily they educate GPs on important clinical areas and highlight the common patient problems faced by GPs on a daily basis. All questions for each video tutorial are set on the basis of a real need and demand from our GPs for such education as it will be beneficial to them and ultimately their patients.

Our Ask the Expert feature is the fastest growing feature on GPBuddy.ie. It is also our most innovative section as there is nothing else like this in the Irish healthcare market. We now have approximately 60 consultant experts from a range of different specialities who are on hand to answer any questions that GPs might have. When the specialist answers the question, we publish and promote the question and the answer for all GPs on GPBuddy.ie to learn from.

MedCafe.ie is GPBuddy.ie's latest development and is a one-stop-shop for Doctors to access and participate in webinars on a range of different topics all in one place. We developed MedCafe.ie as a platform to allow live presentations on a range of different topics to be delivered online (as webinars) bringing together a presenter and a Doctor audience as painlessly as possible. We can facilitate webinars at a local, regional, national and international level. Having launched in September 2018 over 1,000 Doctors have registered with MedCafe.ie.
